

Electronic Applications

reduces the turn-around time by about half!

E-apps take the guesswork out of application processing.

E-apps make it easier by highlighting required fields. As you complete the application, sections of the form are shown or purposely hidden based on your client's answers. Rules are embedded within the forms helping prevent data entry mistakes that could cost you valuable time.

Sometimes, it's what you don't know

Sometimes a customer doesn't have access to some of the information, like a driver's license number. That's okay, because E-apps let you skip those questions and jump to any other section of the form. You can save the data, then return later and pick up where you left off. What if you don't have a doctor's address? Simple – use the doctor look-up tool!

What if your client answers a question that requires an additional form? Don't worry, the E-app system knows and will add it.

You can't always control where, when and how your client will want to complete an application, but E-apps are versatile. You can partially complete an application electronically, print it and hand-write the rest. However, if your client lives too far away or would prefer completing the application online, fill it out electronically, then e-sign and e-submit it for faster processing.
